Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

Sunny skies and warmer temperatures are expected today with the high temperature reading near 60 and the overnight low in the 40's. The outlook for Wednesday indicates continued sunny skies and mild temperatures. Winds today will be light and variable 10 to 15 mph. Monday's 7 a.m. report: high 66; low 39; there was .09 inches of precipitation recorded. The river level was 3.9 feet and falling.

KINZUA DAM REPORT

Pool level 1318.65 feet (desired summer pool level 1328 feet; maximum 1365 feet). Outflow temperature 40 degrees. Upper reservoir 43 degrees. The reading at the Warren gauge 3.96 feet.

WARREN COUNTY

Julius L. Thorn, executive director of the Warren YMCA, formally announces his retirement. The announcement is made on Thorn's behalf by Richard T. Betts, YMCA board president.

THE NATION

Chicago's mayor says arsonists should be shot on sight, and expresses disappointment that police hadn't been ordered to do so during recent rioting.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy brings his campaign for president to Pennsylvania this week with the shadows of two other Democrats looming in the wings.

Eighteen massive gates drop into place one by one and the Columbia River is brought to a halt by John Day Dam. Under its pool will lie the sites of abandoned towns and an ancient civilization.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy launches a tour of the western half of the country. But his heart is clearly in Indiana, scene of a vital May primary.

President Johnson calls on North Vietnam to promptly make a "serious and considerate reply" to U.S. proposals for a neutral meeting site for peace envoys.

THE WORLD

Police and demonstrators fight in streets of Frankfurt and Munich. Some 150 persons are arrested in disorders in six West German cities. An AP photographer is struck on the head and reported in serious condition at a hospital.

Enemy forces hit sharply at U.S. units in three widely scattered attacks ranging from the Mekong Delta to the far north of South Vietnam.

Two unmanned Soviet Sputniks link up in orbit and then separate after nearly four hours.

SPORTS

The Warren Dragons (2-0) and the Franklin Knights (2-0) battle it out today in their first Section II track and field meet of the season. Starting time is 3:45 on the WAHS hilltop oval.

Moving west the Youngsville Eagles, 14 for the season, will host the Ridgway Elkers, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The Elkers bowed to Eisenhower High School thimclads last week.

Telegrams from across the nation poured into Augusta National Monday, criticizing the controversial finish of the Masters Golf Tournament. Everyone says Roberto de Vicenzo got a bum deal, but that's the way the rules read—not that they may not need re-written.

A 37 point performance by Sam Jones helped keep the Boston Celtics alive in the National Basketball Association playoffs last night. The Boston five dumped the Philadelphia 76ers 122-104 to make the series, 3-2.

Camilo Pascual passed the 2,000 career strikeout mark when he tossed a seven-hitter as the Washington Senators blanked the California Angels 7-0 Monday.

REUNION IN BRADFORD

Enemy Forces Hit U.S. Units In Three Bloody Clashes

Saigon (AP) — Enemy forces hit sharply at U.S. units Monday in three widely scattered attacks ranging from the Mekong Delta to the far north of South Vietnam.

Nine Americans were killed and 87 were wounded in the three clashes.

The bloodiest action took place in the central highlands about 19 miles west of Kontum, where a company from the 4th

Infantry Division was on a combat sweep. The U.S. Command said the American troops first came under a heavy mortar attack that lasted five minutes.

Nine U.S. soldiers were reported killed in the highlands fight. Thirty-four were wounded and evacuated and 14 others were treated and returned to duty. Enemy casualties were unknown.

The action in the Mekong Delta about 50 miles southwest of Saigon involved the Mobile Riverine Force, a combined U.S. Navy and Army group. Spokesmen said "several ships" were fired on by an enemy force of unknown size using 75mm recoilless rifles and that one landing craft burned and sank.

Fourteen U.S. Navy men and four Army troops were wounded in the delta action, but all were returned to duty after treatment, spokesmen said. Enemy casualties were not known.

The third attack Monday occurred nine miles southwest of the former imperial capital of Hue, or about 400 miles north-east of Saigon. There a company from the 101st Airborne Division was hit first by mortar and then by grenade fire.

The enemy force, estimated at about 60 men, then launched a ground attack. Fighting flared for almost an hour with artillery supporting the paratroopers.

The enemy broke contact and withdrew, spokesmen said, leaving behind the bodies of six dead. None of the American paratroopers was killed, but some were wounded seriously enough to be evacuated.

U.S. Air Force B52 bombers again ranged over the country, carrying out six strike missions late Monday and early Tuesday.

In the air war over North Vietnam, U.S. pilots hit targets in the panhandle that included highways, bridges and trucks. Sources said the raids were confined to areas south of the 19th parallel for the 12th consecutive day. The strike farthest north, they said, was an attack on a causeway 169 miles above the demilitarized zone.

John Day Dam Halts Flow of Columbia River

THE DALLES, Ore. (AP) — The Columbia River, thundering over McNary Dam at 7,000 tons of water a second, slams Tuesday into the closed gates of John Day Dam, 76 miles downstream.

John Day is the newest, biggest, most powerful, most costly dam ever built by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Its ultimate capacity is 3 million kilowatts. Grand Coulee's is 2 million. Bonneville, the original Columbia River dam, generates 518,000.

Eighteen massive gates were poised for lowering early Tuesday across openings through which the Columbia has raced on its course to the sea, 215 miles away.

Once the gates are brought down one by one the river's flow will be stilled.

Then Lake Umatilla will rise behind it. The water will climb 40 feet the first 24 hours, then some will be allowed to run over the spillway gates to keep the lower river flowing well.

By Saturday the water will be 80 feet deep over the old river surface and a Coast Guard buoy tender will be lifted through the navigation lock as the first vessel to enter Lake Umatilla from downstream.

The lake will wipe out the rapids that have plagued tugs and barges and provide slackwater navigation 325 miles from the sea to Ice Harbor Dam on the Snake River.

Beneath the lake will be ancient stone carvings—petroglyphs—of long-forgotten Indian tribes. "There never was enough time or money to do the archeological work," said Thomas O. Vaughan, director of the Oregon Historical Society, of the loss of the stone carvings.

The lake also will cover the sites of the Oregon towns of Arlington and Boardman, moved to higher ground, and parts of others. More than a hundred miles of railroad track were moved as were highways and bridges.

John Day Dam's ultimate cost will be about $450 million and nearly a third of that was for relocation work.

Demonstrators Fight in Streets Of Frankfurt and Munich

BERLIN (AP) — Police and demonstrators fought Monday in streets of Frankfurt and Munich, where leftist crowds tried to halt distribution of Axel Springer's conservative newspapers. Some 150 persons were arrested in disorders in six West German cities.

Police with water cannon were on the alert in West Berlin, but the city had its first afternoon in four days without a violent demonstration.

An Associated Press news photographer, Klaus Frings, was struck on the head and knocked unconscious by a stone thrown during a melee near a Springer printing plant in Munich. He was reported in serious condition at a hospital.

Four other persons were gravely injured and more than 100 arrested.

An incendiary device was discovered in a courtyard of the printing plant, police said. They said nailboards, which demonstrators have spread in streets to maim on a 11 z e newspaper trucks, were found in a student headquarters at Munich University.

Nationwide Telephone Strike To Have Little Impact Here

A nationwide telephone strike of some 200,000 workers next Thursday, which, according to Joseph A. Beirne, of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers, seems inevitable will probably have little if any impact on telephone workers in the Warren area, according to Robert Dilks, manager of the local Bell Telephone Co.

Dilks said, Monday night, none of the Pennsylvania Bell Telephone Workers belong to the CWA, and are therefore not affected by the present contract negotiations. However, Dilks added, there are several Western Electric employees, who do belong to the union, who install equipment at the central offices locally. Should the strike materialize, Dilks said, and should the Western Electric employees decide to picket the local offices, the ultimate effect of the strike would depend on whether or not Bell employees would honor the picket lines.

In any case, Dilks stated, the local service would not be immediately affected by the strike if it should materialize. Executives would take over the switch boards as in the past when picket lines were honored, and the major inconvenience to local patrons would probably be confined to a slow down in their ability to place a long distance call where the services of an operator are required.

Bloody battles developed in Frankfurt, around a plant where Tuesday editions of several Springer papers are printed, after police moved from behind barbed wire barricades and tried to convey about a dozen delivery trucks through 5,000 demonstrators. Twenty-six demonstrators were reported seriously hurt.

When a water cannon leading the convoy went dry, protesters rushed the trucks, let air out of the tires and broke windshields.

Some in the crowd threw stones at police and Lord Mayor Willy Brandt said demonstrators also tossed bags of quicklime and paint at the officers.

About 1,500 youths, chanting "Ho, Ho, Ho Chi Minh," marched later on a railway station where newspapers are normally loaded. Then they walked to City Hall, where they called for Brandt's dismissal.

In Hamburg, a truck leaving a Springer plant was said to have run over a demonstrator. Police took three members of the Socialist Student Federation — SDS — into custody and said they found nailboards during a search of the federation's office in that city.

Springer, the biggest publisher in continental Europe, has been the main target of the German New Left because of the conservative editorial views of his newspapers.

LBJ Asks Hanoi To Seriously Consider Neutral Meeting Site

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson called on North Vietnam Monday to promptly make a "serious and considerate reply" to U.S. proposals for a neutral meeting site for peace envoys.

"As of now, we have had no response or comment from Hanoi—other than radio signals—about anyone of the locations we have suggested," Johnson reported.

"For us, this is not a propaganda exercise," Johnson declared in prepared remarks upon his call at Iolani Palace, the Hawaii government seat, during an Asia strategy conference here.

"What is needed now is an equally serious and considerate reply," matching the seriousness of the U.S. offers, the President said. And in stressing his urgency about the need for quick agreement on beginning peace talk preliminaries, he added:

"It is now two long weeks since I restricted our bombing and urged North Vietnam to come to the conference table.

"We are eager to get on with the task of peace making. Precious time is being lost.

"Asians and Americans alike are ready to let diplomacy go to work—now—without further delay."

Johnson interrupted an Easter vacation at his Texas ranch to fly here for at least two days of conferences on Vietnam and Korea.

South Korea's President Chung Hee Park, a Vietnam ally, meets with Johnson Wednesday after a Tuesday round of Vietnam consultations between the U.S. chief executive and his Pacific commanders. The talks come against a background of fresh ambush killing of U.S. soldiers by North Koreans.

Some U.S. military men had opposed the holddown in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam which Johnson finally ordered March 31 in a bid to break the long impasse with the Reds over peace talks.

On April 3 the United States and North Vietnam publicly announced their readiness to send representatives for direct contact. But since then the two sides have been jockeying over where to meet.

The United States, Johnson noted, has proposed four neutral-country sites in Asia—Vientiane, Rangoon, Jakarta and New Delhi.

At the same time the United States has objected to Hanoi proposals to meet at Warsaw and Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital.

Johnson said the United States wants "the earliest possible contacts" but preferred a neutral capital where both sides have diplomatic accreditation. Washington has no diplomatic relations with Cambodia while Warsaw is the capital of a Communist East European country—Poland—sending materials to Hanoi for her war.

Johnson stepped off his presidential airliner at Honolulu international airport to a full-dress military greeting ceremony and cheers from a gaily-decked throng of islanders.

Unmanned Soviet Sputniks Link Up in Orbit Monday

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, apparently preparing to put men into space again, reported a successful linkup Monday of two unmanned space ships. After 3 hours and 50 minutes they were separated.

Informed sources said a launching involving men is expected soon.

Monday's linkup, duplicating a feat first performed by the Soviet Union Oct. 30, was made by Cosmos 212 and Cosmos 213. The time of the linkup was 20 minutes longer than the previous one but there were no announced significant differences between the two.

Cosmos 212 was launched Sunday and Cosmos 213 sent up after it Monday.

The Cosmos designation has been applied to a variety of Soviet space ships, but the flight patterns of these two indicated they are of the new Soyuz type. Cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov crashed last April 24 in the first manned Soyuz flight.

Soviet space authorities said then the Soyuz type would be used again after defects were corrected.

Komarov's death seemed to induce extreme caution in the Soviet space program. This could explain why a second remote-controlled linkup by unmanned space ships was carried out before a new manned launching.

The United States achieved the first manned space linkup 2½ years ago. While that country was progressing in space the Soviet Union slowed down and lost its lead.

Tass Monday said unmanned linkups are "immeasurably more complicated scientific and technical tasks, in the opinion of specialists, than the docking of a manned ship with an artificial satellite."

The Russians have not carried out a successful manned space flight since Alexei A. Leonov took the first space walk March 18, 1965.

McCarthy Brings His Campaign To Pennsylvania This Week

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy brings his campaign for president to Pennsylvania Tuesday with the shadows of two other Democrats lurking in the wings.

McCarthy is the only candidate on the Democratic presidential ballot in the April 23 primary.

But political analysts are certain to compare the Minnesota senator's vote total with the potential of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, an announced candidate, and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, an unannounced but reportedly eager candidate.

"We've made a lot of progress and hope to get a very good vote for Sen. McCarthy in Pennsylvania," said attorney Daniel M. Berger, chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Citizens for McCarthy.

Working out of campaign offices in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and scores of smaller communities, McCarthy supporters have been canvassing voters and handing out pamphlets to drum up as many votes as possible.

Berger said the campaign will reach its peak this week with the arrival of McCarthy. The senator flies into Pittsburgh Tuesday night and will hold an airport news conference.

On Wednesday McCarthy will campaign at the gates of a Jones & Laughlin steel mill on Pittsburgh's South Side, talk to voters on downtown streets during the noon hour, chat with Mayor Joseph M. Barr and other Democratic leaders, and wind up the day with a speech at a McCarthy rally in Syria Mosque. He'll depart Pennsylvania for a day of campaigning in Indiana Thursday, but will be back in the state for Friday and Saturday appearances in Philadelphia.

Only hours before McCarthy comes to Pittsburgh Tuesday night, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz will be speaking at the Democrats' annual Jefferson Day dinner. Wirtz already has endorsed Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination.

After Kennedy jumped into the race, some of the Students for McCarthy at the University of Pittsburgh bolted that organization and formed a Students for Kennedy group.

Their leaders explained that they weren't against McCarthy, but felt that Kennedy was closer to their philosophies.

The adult Pennsylvania Citizens for Kennedy Committee welcomed the student support, but has taken a sort of hands-off attitude toward the primary.

Kennedy has asked the group some time ago not to push his candidacy. By the time he announced, it was too late to get his name on the ballot and his supporters were already urging votes for McCarthy as an anti-Johnson move.

Bobby Launches Tour Through Western States

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy launched a lengthy tour of the western half of the country Monday—but his heart clearly was in Indiana, scene of a vital May primary election.

The New York Democrat spoke of improving labor skills and tested his strength among the heavily Polish population of northern Indiana after a one-day break for Easter in his presidential campaign.

While Kennedy continued on Monday to the Dakotas and during the rest of the week to Nebraska and the West Coast, he is expected to spend a minimum of time between now and May 7 outside of Indiana, where he is matched against favorite-son candidate Gov. Roger D. Branigan and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn.

Indiana has 63 delegates to the Democratic national convention at stake in its primary—

Kennedy's first test at the polls in his drive to the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Kennedy entourage switched Monday to a big Boeing 707 jetliner for a journey that may last two weeks or more. It was crammed with dozens of reporters, television technicians and gear. Kennedy friends—including Mrs. Scott Carpenter, wife of the former astronaut—and Freckles, a spaniel from the Kennedys' menagerie.

Monday, Kennedy urged in South Bend that those in the nation's labor force should begin the opportunity to return to school and improve their skills while the unemployed are groomed to take over their positions.

"Rather than training solely the unemployed for the highest skilled jobs," he said, "it would make better sense to upgrade all of our workers."

Champion Coasting Car Driver Urges Early Start for Derby

One reason Ken Cline of Lincoln, Neb., reigns today as the world's champion coasting car driver is that he started early and devoted a lot of time building the sharp-nosed racer that won him a $7,500 college scholarship in last year's All-American.

"Young Cline estimates he invested something like 1,400 hours designing and building his racer," Vic Miller, Warren said.

"And Ken isn't unusual. Year after year, the boys who win local races to reach the championship finals spend an average 1,000 hours preparing their cars."

Noting that the Derby here is scheduled for July 13, directors encouraged boys to begin immediately on their designing and car-building projects.

He said a boy must allow ample time to study official Soap Box Derby rules, collect the materials for his car, build at a careful, thoughtful pace and allow a period for testing and adjustments.

The 1968 season marks Warren Co., sixth annual coasting classic. Officials are predicting a record number of contestants and the closest competition in history.

The new champion will receive from national sponsor Chevrolet a handsome trophy and $500 savings bond. He will represent this community in the 31st All-American finals at Akron, Ohio.

The first nine place winners at Akron will share in $30,000 in college scholarships awarded by Chevrolet.

Commissioners Are Concerned About Grass Fires

The Warren County Commissioners on Monday expressed concern about the numerous grass fires which have plagued areas in the county during the past few weeks.

Chairman Dr. David K. Rice said that while it has been customary for individual fire chiefs to declare a halt to burning when the situation appears critical, it is actually the responsibility of the township supervisors. The latter are granted the authority to issue fire bans under Public Law 103, Article 1, Section 702, passed on May 1, 1953.

Man Injured In Local Mishap

A North Warren resident was injured in an 11:22 p.m. traffic mishap Saturday on Market street at the Seventh avenue intersection.

Taken to Warren General Hospital was Richard B. Lightner, of 8 S. State st.

Borough police officers Richard McWilliams and James Urey, who investigated, said a Honda motorcycle operated by Lightner, traveling north on Market, went out of control and struck the northeast corner curb line. Lightner fell from the cycle, police stated.

Damage was listed at $75. Officer Edward Lindberg investigated a second accident involving a motorcycle at 12:25 p.m. Friday on Third avenue.

According to police, a car operated by Francis Lee Holmes, 109 1/2 Oak st., Warren, pulled from a parking place on the right side of Third while the motorcycle driven by Robert James Lucas, 617 West st., was traveling west.

Lucas, police stated, did not hit the car but went off the left side of the street and struck a telephone pole. He suffered a lacerated hand and damage was estimated at $75.

Takes Truck For Ride, Returns It

CORRY — An unknown individual Friday night entered the Meadow Brook Dairy building here, took a truck for a ride and then returned it to the plant.

Police received a report from Dale Mason, of RDI, Spring Creek, Meadow Brook driver, who went to the plant Saturday morning to get his truck and take off on his route only to find someone had already covered a route of his own.

The truck, loaded during the night and ready for Mason to start his route, was returned with a flat tire, a broken side view mirror and clearance light.

Police Chief Frank Cernegie said the individual who took the truck, drove it in such a manner that milk cartons were dashed around inside and about $20 worth of milk spilled.

The truck gave evidence of having been driven over dirt roads.

Split in Mayor's Team Grows Wider at Council Session

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The ever widening split in the Magnuson team grew even wider at Monday night's meeting of Jamestown City Council. During the proceedings Mayor Charles B. Magnuson charged the council with "making a monkey out of me."

The charge by the mayor came following an 8 to 4 vote to table a resolution calling for a $15,500 salary for the newly created position of personnel director.

Councilman-at-large Warren Erickson, the Robert Godfrey of the Magnuson administration, led the opposition to the Magnuson-approved resolution. Erickson asked where the money was coming from, and city comptroller Moreland Lazier replied "At this time I don't know."

The GOP councilman then quoted from a recent communication from the comptroller's office, declaring the contract agreements with city employees would result in a cost of $260,000 this year. The communication noted that $125,000 could be taken from the contingency fund and $123,000 raised by emergency notes, still leaving the city short $25,000.

Pursuing his point in a very aggressive manner, councilman Erickson said the figures quoted by the comptroller did not include a personnel director or a secretary for the office.

He also said there are 40 or 50 city employees who are not represented by any negotiating group and they were omitted from the request.

Quoting from the same communication, Erickson referred

Bi-Partisan Team Urges Five 'Yes' Votes April 23

BY FRANKLIN R. HOFF

It was a most unusual event yesterday when a bi-partisan team of Democratic and Republican leaders of Pennsylvania held a joint press conference for this region at Bradford airport at 1 p.m.

The politically star-studded group came directly from a similar press conference in Erie.

The group included Lt. Gov. Raymond Broderick, Gov. Louis John, vice chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Pennsylvania; Jack Jordan, chairman of the Republican State Committee; James A. Michener, Bucks County Democrat, secretary to the recent Pennsylvania Constitutional Convention, and author of "South Pacific," "Hawaii" and other works.

On hand to greet the party as they came off the charter plane were attorney William F. Clinger Jr. of Warren and Assemblyman Victor Westerberg of Kane, both delegates from this district to the Constitutional Convention, in addition to Oscar Benton, mayor of Bradford; Gurney R. Ball, Warren County Republican committee chairman; Sam Gerardi, Republican committeeman for the 4th ward in Warren and longtime friend of Lt. Governor Broderick; Russ Weston, McKean County commissioner; Pennsylvania Highway Department Superintendent Alden Barton; and other dignitaries. Advance representative for the group was Paul Zdinak.

LeRoy Schneck represented WNAE - WRRN - FM and there were representatives of radio stations in Bradford and Kane as well as the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer, Kane Republican and Bradford Era.

Broderick introduced the distinguished members of his party which is barnstorming the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to "wake up the towns and tell the people" to get out and vote "YES" five times next Tuesday at the April 23 primary election.

All emphasized that both the Democratic and Republican parties in Pennsylvania are unanimous in joining in a bi-partisan effort to urge the people to vote "YES" on all five proposals presented by the Constitutional Convention just completed.

"Our mission today," explained Lt. Gov. Broderick, "as a bi-partisan team, is to point out to the people of Pennsylvania that the greatest opportunity they have ever had for better government, at both the state and local level, is theirs on April 23, by voting 'YES' five times."

After briefly outlining the high points of each of the five constitutional proposals on the ballot, Broderick called upon each member of the team for comments.

Summing up, Broderick emphasized that the adoption of the five constitutional proposals, all inter-related, mean better government, more efficient government and tax savings for the people.

Concerning the judiciary question, Broderick and Michener both pointed out that not only were there 69 lawyers and 7 judges among the 163 delegates to the Pennsylvania Constitutional Convention, but they included a dean of Dickinson Law School, a former judge. In addition they heard the leading legal and judicial minds in the entire nation as advisors. The final proposal was designed to provide the people with a unified judicial system, including complete reorganization of the minor judiciary.

The final admonition from the entire group was: "Let's every one of us go out and wake the town and tell the people to vote 'YES' five times at the primary election next Tuesday, April 23, 1968, on the constitutional questions."

Prior to the meeting the councilmen were greeted by picketing firemen outside the building. The firemen are seeking a 10 per cent pay hike but the city is willing to pay only five per cent. Councilmen Anderson and Conti said they are hopeful that negotiation Tuesday night with the Morton Club will be fruitful.

The council also agreed to table a resolution from the planning commission recommending a zoning change at Forest and South avenues for the construction of apartment units. The resolution was referred to the corporation counsel's office for a legal opinion.

Council president Fred Anderson informed the mayor the council was only following the

Julius Thorn Retiring From Warren YMCA Post

Julius L. Thorn, executive director of the Warren YMCA, formally announced his retirement at last evening's monthly board of directors meeting. The announcement was made on Thorn's behalf by Richard T. Betts, board president, who indicated that Thorn's retirement was made known to him and Clifford Terry, personnel chairman, early in January of this year.

Thorn's retirement will become effective on November first of this year, after having served the YMCA movement for forty-two years.

Thorn's service started in La Porte, Indiana as that city's YMCA boys' work secretary. Following this experience, Thorn served as a YMCA executive director in New Castle, Indiana; Marion, Indiana; and Norwood, Cincinnati, Ohio. He has also served in the armed services' YMCA at Camp Blanding, Florida and the Staff and Command College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Prior to coming to Warren, he worked on the YMCA state staff of Indiana.

On September 3, 1957 Thorn accepted the Warren YMCA's invitation to serve as its executive director. During this time he has also served as a director on the Pennsylvania State YMCA board and as a delegate to the National YMCA Council.

Today the Warren YMCA facilities and programs are geared to all members of the family. Its current successes are attributed by Thorn to the willingness of laymen and interested area citizens, who have given of their time and talents so willingly. Since 1957 many important decisions have been made by the Warren Association which, with community support, have resulted in a modernized facility. As a result, the association has not only been able to increase its

Deadline Is Today For Petitions

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The deadline for filing petitions for election of Jamestown's Board of Education is today at 5 p.m. Residents of the enlarged Jamestown school district will go to the polls on May 7 to elect two new members of the local board of education.

Those whose terms expire on June 30 are Mrs. Katherine Ives, 30 Spruce st., and Frederick R. Weedon, 21 Chestnut st. Mrs. Ives has already announced she plans to seek another five year term, but Weedon has declined to run again. An officer of Watson Manufacturing Co., Weedon said last week, the press of business mandates he not seek re-election.

The only other known candidate for the school board post is Jamestown Podiatrist Bert S. Kline, 16 W. Sixth st. It is possible however that other candidates will file petitions sometime today at the board of education building at E. Fourth st.

Get Tough 'Litter' Policy

When it comes to giving credit where credit is due, a standing ovation is in order for the Pennsylvania Fish Commission for the drive it has instituted to reduce littering in the out of doors. It's a get tough policy, that's for certain, but just the thing that is needed to control the careless element that make up such a small minority of the many recreationists who really appreciate the esthetic beauty of our woodlands and streams.

The order of the Commission to its wardens to arrest any and all persons caught in the act of littering is a step in the right direction. A very commendable step that should show immediate results in controlling the litterbug.

There is little question that thoughtless fishermen have long been numbered among the worst of the waste scatterers. So much so that it has never been difficult to measure the fishing pressure at a given point on a stream by the amount of trash—beer cans, pop bottles, bread wrappers, discarded clothing, etc.—left in the area. The present policy, after a few arrests have been made, should soon discourage the practice.

And the warden who does his duty should also be commended. For it is not a pleasant task to make an arrest even when circumstances point to no other conclusion. And it might be easily understood if a fish warden decided that policing litterbugs wasn't a part of his duty.

Yet the need for drastic measures is at hand. And the fact that the Fish Commission and its personnel are willing to accept the added responsibility indicates that their concern for our outdoor welfare goes beyond their stipulated duties. Let's give them a hand!

JIM BISHOP

Start Off With a Song

He is small and bald with a white horseshoe of hair, a man with the grin of a child. He held his palms out at his side, flipped his nose sideways like a friendly dolphin, and said: "What can I get yet?" Jimmy Durante ordered a "vanilla prostate" for himself. The face is 75 years old. The heart is as young as Dr. Blaisberg's.

Durante will not die. Some day he will leave the premises, bowing a solemn good night to "Mrs. Calabrese" as he backs through the door, and he will not be seen again, but he won't die, because unspish children never do.

He had a suite of rooms at the Deauville Hotel at Miami Beach and there was a red exit sign over the door. He said it meant "executive suite." Wherever he goes, he brings a jar of instant coffee and a box of cornflakes. "Just gimme a hot plate," he says to the manager. "That's all the service I need."

Durante is uncomplicated. He works because he enjoys it. Twice a night he runs around a stage at top speed, slapping a noble singer, Sonny King, with a gray fedora, watching his chubby friend Eddie Jackson do a cake walk, busting pianos and tossing sheet music at the band. From the audience he looks like a berserk chicken.

He earns a lot. He spends a lot. It is possible that he saves on having his own box of cornflakes, but Durante is a soft touch for a tap. He has a private payroll of out-of-work friends to whom he mails $400 a week. Old buddies wait for him after the show to "borrow" a minimum of $300, a maximum of $1,000. None of it comes back.

In the old days, when New York was building the Third Avenue "El," the contractors used to go to Italy and buy men by the gross. Bartolomeo Durante came over on a sailing ship. He required 27 days. The "El" paid him $12 a week as a night watchman. Later, he sent for his Italian fiancée. When they were married, Durante's father was well earning $12.

The contractor deducted $1 a week for Bartolomeo's fare; $1 a week for his fiancée's ticket, and $1 a week for the engagement ring. The old man couldn't beat the rap until he opened a barbershop in Cherry Hill. He sent Jimmy to Professor Fluri for piano lessons. The professor wanted Jimmy to play Poet and Peasant. Durante wanted to play ragtime. Something with an Italian-sounding beat.

Professionally, he began in Coney Island playing piano for a bunch of singing waiters. By 1936, he was starring in movies. He was rich and funny. Then he wasn't funny. He was out of work. From 1940 to 1943, the only people who laughed at him were pedestrians. These were the dark years.

In the same years, his father died. Also, Jimmy's wife, "Mrs. Calabrese." And his brother Al, a cop. His brother Mike, too. And Lillian, his sister. The act, Clayton, Jackson and Durante, couldn't be booked for a benefit.

He even cried funny. Inch by inch, Banana Nose pulled him.

Bishop

self back up. It was a long haul. Along the way, Lou Clayton died. Seven years ago, when he was back on top, and had a big home on Beverly Drive in Beverly Hills, he married Margie Little. They adopted a dark-haired infant with soulful, meditative eyes. Her name was Cecilia. She's now six.

Mrs. Durante looked at the beautiful home, and, as Durante explained it, she desired to make a few changes. "She tore that place right to the ground. She winds up with nuffin' but a chimney." His wife does not resent the fact that little Cecilia has become the woman in Jimmy's life. She is aware that her husband loves great numbers of people in varying degrees, and she is content to be up on top with the baby.

Durante works five months a year. He spends the remaining seven months taking his little girl ice skating, roller skating, down to La Cienega to ride on the Merry-go-round. At Dale Robertson's ranch, Ceecee now has a pony. When she asks him why he adopted her, he honks like a goose and rasps: "Because we needed a boss around the house."

George Bourke, the dean of America's amusement editors, thinks that Durante has put on as many benefit shows as anybody in the theatre. The only one I know who might compete is Dan Healy. In any case, Jimmy Durante now does more benefit shows for retarded children than any other type.

He is the kind of man who hangs rosaries around his parent's pictures. He cannot say no to a bore who wants to sit and talk about nothing. His philosophy is in a song he sings. "You gotta start each day off with a song, even when things go wrong." I never met Ceecee, but she sure knows how to pick a father. . . .

Insurance Gaps

A record 163,000,000 Americans now are covered by some form of private health insurance, the Health Insurance Institute has just reported. This is 31,000,000 more than were covered as recently as 1960.

Last year we, the insured, received a peak $11 billion in private health insurance benefits, almost double 1960's $5.7 billion. This is in addition to the billions in benefits paid out under the Medicare-Medicaid program.

Today, unprecedented numbers of us are covered by group health insurance plans with employers paying in full the costs of coverage of nearly two-thirds.

Are we, then, reaching a point where we, as a nation, can sit back and relax despite skyrocketing doctor and hospital bills? Emphatically NO.

Private health insurance today pays only one-third of our total medical bill. One in five Americans is not covered by any group health insurance policy and more than 37 million have no private health insurance at all. Most of these are Americans who need such coverage the most, employees of small businesses, farm laborers, household helpers, the unemployed.

Huge gaps still exist in the types of services paid for by most health insurance policies. Usually excluded are costly rehabilitation after an accident or a stroke, maternity and new baby care, eye care, private nurses, nursing home care. Mental health services also are severely limited.

Only a fraction of us, 61,000,000, are protected against catastrophic illness through major medical insurance. The typical health insurance policy covers hospital stays of no longer than two to three months. The maximum benefit provided by most health insurance policies for hospitalization is way below actual daily charges now.

There also are major gaps in Medicare insurance for the nation's elderly. Medicare provides no benefits for dentistry, hearing aids, eyeglasses, out-of-hospital drugs which easily can cost $10-$20 or more a month for an elderly individual. Nor does Medicare adequately protect the elderly American against the phenomenal cost of prolonged physical or mental illness.

To narrow the gap, compulsory health insurance is being considered, like compulsory auto insurance, in many states. The New York State legislature has been seriously debating a plan covering full hospitalization, outpatient and maternity costs, with insurance premiums shared by employer and employee.

The private health insurance industry also is looking for ways to fill the gaps. Among the ideas are higher benefit levels, extended coverage, whole new patterns of benefits, insurance pools for the poor and "high risks," a non-cancellable insurance, more incentives to individuals for preventive care and more incentives to hospitals and doctors to find less costly ways to deliver health care. As a goal, says Wilbur Cohen, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, "health insurance should be covering at least 90 per cent of all consumer expenditures for health care."

Unless the private health insurance industry dramatically and drastically reduces the number of gaps in this coverage, Cohen warns, Washington will surely be called upon to do the job.

WILLIAM BUCKLEY

Kennedy Has A Secret

At a major mid-western university one day recently two of its brightest students found themselves planning for an impending visit by Senator Robert Kennedy. Both are highly practiced in making arrangements for visiting dignitaries, having served as heads of the student speaker's series, so that although they worked diligently to make certain that everything would be just right, they felt no stage fright at producing an appearance by a presidential candidate, not even by the presidential candidate they ardently favor, for they have been, ever since Kennedy's entry into the race, president and vice president of the state Youth for Kennedy.

Twenty-four hours before the visitation, an incredible ten(10) advance men pile out of an airplane and begin issuing orders at the rate of approximately ten per minute, for a period of about ten hours, totally rearranging, not to say consulting, the well-laid plans of the two college students. For one thing, the appearance will not be in the field house, but in the gymnasium. Why? the students ask. The field house holds ten-thousand, the gym 3,000; surely it is better to talk to ten than to three thousand. The chief advance man smiles. Look, he says, in the first place, how are you going to be sure that ten-thousand people will come in to fill the field house? There are only 150,000 people in this whole town, and a lot of them just aren't interested. Sure, Charlie will try to get the school board to declare a holiday so the kids can come. But maybe he'll succeed, maybe he won't. Meanwhile, we can be sure to fill the gym, and what matters is that TV shows SRO.

The technique, a professional carefully explains, is at the hand obvious, but even so, effective. Mr. Kennedy's appeal is to the youth, and he is as aware as anyone that they do not vote. But never mind they are the instruments through which he intends to communicate an enthusiasm for his candidacy to older people, and by one simple means: the six o'clock and the eleven o'clock news every day. Every day at that time, when the television networks give their reports on the day's news, there will be shots of a mass student audience at a gymnasium somewhere, having been carefully deployed by the advance men, responding like snake dancers to the directions of the high priest. The idea is that the viewer will come soon to believe that this is force majeure. That is when the delegates will begin to feel—or so it is programmed by Mr. Kennedy's strategists—that an irresistible force is moving through the land. And in politics what you do about irresistible forces is lie down and enjoy it.

The two students, awaiting the arrival of the senator, are amused by it all. They are of a rather different breed from the typical Kennedymaniacs who treat him as they would a visit by Our Lady of Lourdes, exposing all their infirmities to him for instant curing. For one thing, they have no particular respect for Mr. Kennedy's mind, and none at all for what he is saying. They can agree that he is most fearfully demagogic, that one can never tell what he really believes, that a line pursuing his disjointed statements on Johnson and Vietnam would touch every point of any graph; that the revivalist aspect of the public meetings is the result of intensive planning, of exquisitely orchestrated emotions and programming. . . . Still, what matters, as one of them puts it, is "Kennedy is in motion." There. There is the excitement of Kennedy. They don't like it where they are, and Kennedy will move things in another direction. What direction? It seems to matter only that it should be in a direction other than the inertial direction. In that sense we are sitting on top of the north pole, and wherever we go, we are going south. The Kennedy-watchers must grasp this element. It is the key to his success.

There is no other key. What, just what has he said in the month he has been campaigning, that would stick in the mind of anyone? Nothing, nothing at all. What about his delivery, his general appearance? For all his efforts to look like the boy-king, he manages, in the words of Murray Kempton, to look "more like early Sal Mineo than late James Dean."

But he knows how to give the impression of fluidity, of that magic motion one hankers after when one is convinced that, as a society, we are stranded in the middle of the road, with great world forces careening by us in every direction.

Fineman on the Firing Line

HARRISBURG — The disclosure by Representative Herbert Fineman that he plans to introduce a bill entitled "The Weapons Control Act of 1968" unquestionably places him squarely on (or in) the firing line!

Part of his bill is non-controversial. Few will argue with the fact that bazookas, mortars and anti-tank guns—all of which can now legally be bought in Pennsylvania—should be banned. Mr. Fineman's bill would do this.

But hardly any subject generates more steam than an attempt to place restrictions on the sale of rifles or shotguns. The restrictions are minimal in the Fineman bill—but they are there.

Most people would like to see some controls placed on the sale of mail order weapons. President Kennedy was killed by a gun purchased in that manner and so was Martin Luther King. The riot in Newark was fanned by guns purchased through mail order houses. (Interestingly, the rioters could not gain possession of the rifles locally because of strict New Jersey laws.)

Hoover Lobbying for FBI

WASHINGTON — The general public doesn't know it, but J. Edgar Hoover has been lobbying effectively on Capitol Hill to put all police training in American cities under the FBI if they get any funds from the federal government.

Under the law, Hoover is forbidden to engage in politics. He is supposed to be under the jurisdiction of the Attorney General and keep aloof from Capitol Hill. Despite this, he has sent FBI agents up to key Congressmen to persuade them to give the FBI training jurisdiction over local city police. The "safe streets" bill allocates a certain amount of federal funds to help local law enforcement and Hoover has demanded that no city get these funds unless the FBI has training authority over its police.

This runs counter to the Constitutional right of cities and states to handle their own local problems and is also opposed by Attorney General Ramsey Clark and many Senators. Clark contends the FBI has enough to do with supervising local police training. Many Congressmen argue that the United States must not fall into the European pattern of a national police force, similar to the Deuxieme Bureau of France or the KGB of Soviet Russia.

The Hoover proposal is also opposed by the International Association of Police Chiefs, which has done an excellent job of correlating police training throughout the United States and Canada. Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, is a former assistant director of the FBI who nevertheless has incurred the wrath of J. Edgar Hoover because Tamm wants to keep police training local.

Various states have built up excellent training programs for their police, including California, Michigan, New Jersey and Connecticut. Florida, despite the meddling of Gov. Claude Kirk, who put the Wackenhut Detective Agency in charge of crime, has also made excellent progress.

Florida police are now taught the problems of sociology and race relations through the Florida Institute of Law Enforcement at St. Petersburg Junior College. The FBI, in contrast, has long been an unorganized organization. Only recently have a few Negro agents been admitted.

Leading police chiefs resent the fact that Hoover discriminates against police officials who maintain their independence of the FBI. If they are too independent, they say, Hoover refuses to process their fingerprints or cooperate regarding information on interstate crime. The FBI operates two big computers in Washington which correlate information on stolen guns, stolen autos and wanted persons. This is a very important clearing house of crime information, which does not mean a national police force. However, Hoover has been known to withhold this information from police chiefs whom he considers too independent.

have been some of the top police chiefs of the nation. Supporting him has been Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., a powerful member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Rep. Emanuel Celler, the Brooklyn Democrat who heads the House Judiciary Committee.

The person who had most to do with LBJ's momentous decision not to run again was his wife. She had talked to him about not running for at least two years.

Frank Bell, former secretary to ex-Senator Clarence Dill of Washington State, tells how Ladybird viewed the subject during a visit with her at the LBJ Ranch. Bell, incidentally, knew Johnson when Sen. Dill was in the House of Representatives and when Lyndon Johnson was secretary to Rep. Dick Kleberg of Texas. At that time Bell reported to Dill: "There's a young fellow over there in Congressman Kleberg's office who's going places. A tall young fellow named Johnson."

Last summer Bell was down in Texas and dropped over to the LBJ Ranch where he found the President receiving a long line of visitors. Instead of standing in line, Bell went over to sit with Ladybird under a tree.

"This time next year I suppose you'll all be in the thick of a hot campaign," he told her. "Not if I have anything to do with it," said the lady whose opinions carry considerable weight with the President. "If I can prevent it, Lyndon will not run again. It will kill him. He couldn't last another four years. I've got Coolidge and Truman on my side. They withdrew. Lyndon drives himself so hard. He works until midnight every night. I don't think he could last another four years and I am going to make sure he doesn't try it."

Note—This column has reported that the President's health appears to be good, though he works longer hours than any other President I have covered.

Another friend who influenced the President to bow out was Horace Busby, his favorite speech writer. Several times the President had talked privately about retiring. Particularly when he was despondent he would vow not to seek another term. Then his mood would change and he would talk about reelection strategy.

Last month when the President was particularly aggrieved over the public misunderstanding of his motives, the failure of Congress to cooperate on taxes, and unfair attacks on him in the press, Busby encouraged the President to make an early decision, even wrote the historical speech in which he bowed out.

Note: Vice President Humphrey, in several conversations with the President, has urged him to reconsider his decision. The President, however, has insisted that his decision is irrevocable. He told Humphrey that at the right time he would use his influence to help HHH win the Democratic nomination.

ART BUCHWALD

A New Postmaster General

WASHINGTON — When the looting in Washington started last week, the first thing Bobby Kennedy did was throw a brick through a White House window and steal Postmaster General Larry O'Brien.

This left President Johnson without a postmaster general for the rest of his term.

It is not generally known, but President Johnson's one ambition before leaving the Executive Mansion is to save the United States post office. And so when O'Brien was looted Mr. Johnson called in Marvin Watson, his loyal White House aide.

"Marvin, I've been watching you lately and the thing I admire most about you is the way you handle the mail."

"Thank you, sir. I was a four-letter man at college."

"No jokes, Marvin. You heard, of course, that Larry O'Brien is no longer with us."

"Yes, sir. I saw him going over the fence during the riots, but I decided not to stop him."

"Why not, Marvin?"

"Well, you said to stop people trying to get into the White House, but you didn't mention anything about stopping people trying to get out."

"I see. Well, Marvin, O'Brien's departure has left us with a big hole in the post office. We have a billion-dollar deficit, and I was hoping Larry could make it up by January."

"I thought he was going to sell the post office," Marvin said.

"The only one who made a bid on it was Howard Hughes, but he said he wouldn't take it unless we sold him Arizona and California at the same time. He figured the two would go nicely with Nevada."

"I feel sorry for the poor sucker who would have to take over the post office at this time."

The President didn't say anything.

"Mr. President," Watson said, "what are you looking at me that way for?"

"Marvin, when I leave this place I want to go down in history as the President who saved the United States post office. I want people to say Lyndon Johnson was willing to sacrifice his political career to give every man, woman and child in this country a ZIP code. I want them to say that neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night kept the President from making his appointed rounds."

"That's beautiful, Mr. President," Watson said writing it down for his future book.

"I have selected you, Marvin, to be the new postmaster general. By appointing you, the country will realize that I consider the postmaster general's office above politics and that I am truly searching for a just solution to our junk mail crisis."

Watson was terribly moved. "Mr. President, you know I'm willing to serve you in any capacity you ask. I shall take on the job, and if I can't save the country a billion dollars in the next seven months, I'll resign in January."

"I knew you'd do it, Marvin. The country will never realize the debt they owe to you. If you can do nothing more than keep the hippies from delivering mail in San Francisco, it will be a step in the right direction."

"Don't worry, sir. I've got some definite ideas on what to do. For a start we could put in a mail cover on Kennedy headquarters, then we could . . ."

"Marvin," the President said, "we've got to stay out of politics. A postmaster general must remain neutral in word, thought and deed."

"I guess you're right, Mr. President," Marvin said sadly. "Well, could I at least jam their postage meter machine?"

1948

The largest brown trout entered so far in the various contests sponsored by local sporting goods stores was a fine first-day catch by Clyde Hansen of Warren. The fish measured 22½ inches and weighed three pounds and eight ounces. Youngville fire department was called out early this afternoon and remained on the job about an hour when a grass fire started in the extreme west end of the borough and burned over an area of approximately two acres.

1958

Father Knows Best, Dinah Shore and Jack Benny, honored at last, were stars in television's annual Emmy awards.

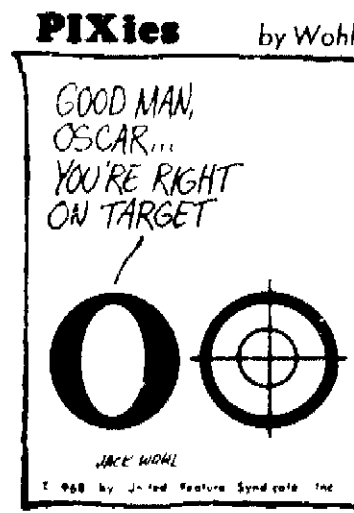

A crowd estimated at over 100 attended the auction sale at the former property of the Lesser Sisters, 311 West Third Avenue, which opened this morning.

Market Falter, Then Recovers

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market faltered in early trading Monday but took a new lease on life late in the session, carving out another gain, its fourth straight. Trading was active.

The recovery came in the final hour and was based on news that Hanoi was considering New Delhi as a place for talks with the United States. This, combined with the stubborn nature of the early decline as well as some bright corporate earnings, brought new buying into the market.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed with a gain of 4.50 at 910.19 after showing a loss of 6.19 at its worst in the morning. A mighty factor in the rise of the Dow Industrials was a gain of 7 points by Du Pont after the chemical giant had reported a solid gain in earnings.

Volume was 14.22 million shares compared with 14.23 million Thursday.
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.0 to 323.4, with Industrials up 1.6 to another high for the year, rails off .2, and utilities up 1.3.
Of 1,532 issues traded, 748 rose and 556 fell. Highs for the year totaled 125 and new lows 17.
The New York Stock Exchange index advanced 8 cents to $53.69.

Percentage of available flavor solids per pound in each of the 4 major brands of coffee.

(Source: Pacific Chemical Laboratories independent analysis)

Coffee is all we make. And we've found a way to make it better. A cup of coffee gets its flavor from what scientists call "available flavor solids." We have developed a new way of blending and roasting that gives our coffee more of these flavor solids than other leading coffees. As the chart shows—13% more, 14% more, even 15% more! You get a cup of coffee that has more flavor, more body, more strength. Even with cream and sugar the richer coffee flavor comes through. Enjoy some soon.

The Sheffield American Legion Auxiliary meets tonight in the IOOF Hall.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll make it brief and to the point. My age: 36. Background: Married twice. First marriage to a man twice my age. (I was 16.) My mother pushed me into it because she thought he was rich. I said O.K. because I thought he was kind. We were both wrong. The third time he broke my nose I divorced him.

My second marriage lasted two years. My husband drank vodka martinis for breakfast with beer chasers. He worked for the city and had a fatal accident at work. I'm sure he was smashed on the job, but they paid off nicely and I got a generous settlement.

I bought a small cafe three years ago and have been doing very well. The problem: A 19-year-old boy applied for a job four months ago and I hired him. He is handsome, hard-working, and I think we are in love. He is very grown-up for his age and looks a lot older than he is. The Army won't take him because he has a steel plate in his head. He wants to marry me. What do you think? — ANGIE

DEAR ANGIE: The kid has a steel plate in his head. What's YOUR excuse?

A fellow 19 should be looking for a girl 17. If you are smart you'll help him find one. Where's his mother, anyway?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 13-year-old boy who thinks your advice stinks. Why did you tell that 12-year-old kid he is better off staying in the house practicing the piano, which he hates, then being out in the fresh air playing ball with the gang? Any doctor will tell you that you are wrong. Also this kid's chances of becoming a great ball player are a lot better than his chances of becoming a great piano player because he said in his letter he loves baseball and hates the piano.

I used to think you were on the side of us kids, but now I think you are a crabby old lady. — FORMER FRIEND

DEAR FORMER: I doubt seriously that the boy is in danger of becoming either a great pianist or a great ball player. That, however, is beside the point. What I had in mind was discipline. Unfortunately, too many kids are allowed to do only what is easy, convenient or pleasant and practicing piano is not usually on the list. Got it straight now, Buddy?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I were married at a small family wedding. I knew I was pregnant at the time, and figured I was about three months along. As it turned out, I was in my fifth month. We left the city shortly after the wedding and now we live about 600 miles away from our families. My mother knows I am pregnant but she has no idea how pregnant I am.

The baby is due in about two weeks and I am undecided as to whether I should notify our parents when the baby arrives or wait a few months. What is your advice? — INFANTICIPATING

DEAR IN: Notify your parents when the baby arrives. It is unrealistic to think you can keep an event like this a secret. If you attempt to tip off five months from the baby's age when you take him home, or when someone comes to visit, you will make a fool of yourself.

Methodist Choral Festival
This Saturday, April 20th

A Choral Festival, sponsored by the Kane District of the Methodist Church, will be given at the Warren First Methodist Church on Saturday evening, April 20. The opening notes of the chorus will be heard at 7:30. The concert is open to the public; though there is no admission charge, there will be a free will offering taken to help offset the expense of the festival.

Guest conductor is Professor Cecil Stewart, head of the Mount Union College Music Department in Alliance, Ohio. He has been directing the college choir since 1949, after having served as Professor of Voice and Conducting at Westminster Choir College in Princeton, N. J. He became a full professor at Mount Union in 1957.

The accompanist for the festival will be William R. Brookline, bank, choir director-organist of First Methodist, Warren.

Professor Stewart, a graduate of Ithaca College; Westminster Choir College; also pursued graduate studies at Western Reserve University and studied further in summer music sessions at Eastman School of Music in Rochester. He and Mrs. Stewart, a former Minister of Music at First Methodist Church, Alliance, now teaching at Washington Township School in Marlinton, are the parents of three grown children who also are musically inclined and talented.

Professor Stewart is listed in "Who's Who in Music Directory of American Scholars," "Who's Who in American Education," also, "Who's Who in The Midwest," and "Who's Who in Methodism." The choir he directs was the only American choir invited to sing at the 10th World Methodist Conference, 1961, in Oslo, Norway. While in Europe they spent one month singing in France, Switzerland, Germany, Denmark, Holland, England, Ireland, as well as Norway. The choir has also made five record albums.

Though music is his special forte, Professor Stewart enjoys a relaxing change of pace with favorite hobbies: Flying (a Ta-

Linda Marie Schuwerk Bride of Robert H. Lindberg

Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, the Kennedy Methodist Church at Kennedy, N. Y., was the setting for the marriage of Linda Marie Schuwerk to Robert H. Lindberg. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Schuwerk of Kennedy, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lindberg of Lakeview avenue, Jamestown, N. Y.

The Rev. Gerald Kauffman of the Ellington, N. Y., Methodist Church officiated at the double ring, candlelight ceremony in the presence of two hundred and fifty wedding guests. Baskets of white gladioli and mums, yellow carnations, adorned the altar and bows marked the family pews.

Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride wore a long white silk organza over taffeta gown with delicate beaded insertions on the long sleeves which tapered to wedding points. The gown's waistline was defined with a wide beaded band of pearls and crystals. A cathedral train fell in graceful folds. The bride's bouffant veil, fingertip length, depended from a double crown of lace highlighted with pearls and drop crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and yellow roses accented with ivy.

Mrs. Linda Milks of Garry, N. Y., was the matron of honor in a gown of apricot linen and she carried a cascade of yellow carnations with white daisies. The maid of honor, Miss Jeanne Schuwerk, sister of the bride, was costumed identically, as was the bridesmaid, Mrs. Janice Rounds of Falconer. Their head band veils were secured by a cluster of flowers. The flower girl, Mistress Debra Lindberg of Mayville, niece of the bridegroom, was in a frock styled similarly to those of the adult attendants. Upon her hair was a circlet of apricot flowers with streamers, and she carried a nosegay of white and yellow daisies.

The best man was Melvin Lindberg Jr. of Mayville, and ushers were Roy Lindberg of Jamestown, both brothers of the groom, and Robert Willson of Sinclairville, N. Y., his brother-in-law. Master Jeffrey Willson of Sinclairville, nephew of the groom, was the ringbearer.

The grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Clarence Morse of Fredonia, was remembered with a double cymbidium orchid.

A reception after the wedding, held in the Ross Grange in Falconer, was attended by the two hundred and fifty wedding guests. Master and mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. William Morse of Fredonia, aunt and uncle of the bride; aides were Mrs. Beverly Dahlberg, Mrs. Shirley Payne, Mrs. Arlene Wiedenhofer, Miss Joyce Russ, Mrs. Jean Paige, Miss Nancy Eddy, and managing the guest book, Miss Royanne Lindberg.

For a brief wedding trip, the bride wore a costume of avocado with beige accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg will reside on Mitchell road, Busti.

The bride is a graduate of Falconer High School and of Les Plondes Beauty Academy, Cincinnati, Ohio. She is employed at Ferranti Hair Fashions, Jamestown, N. Y. The groom attended Cassadaga Valley High School before enlisting in the United States Navy. He holds the rate of Boatswain Mate 2, and returns to California for orders to DaNang for one year.

Pre-nuptial parties were given by Mrs. Dianne Morse, Mrs. Lee Eddy, Miss Janice Van Rennselaer, Mrs. Joyce Van Rennselaer, Mrs. Norma Stewart, Mrs. Roy Rounds, Mrs. James Milks. The rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lindberg, parents of the groom at the Dry Brook Restaurant. Attending the wedding from Mason, Ohio, was Mrs. Vivian Schuwerk, aunt of the bride.

Missionary Conference Opens At Calvary Tomorrow

ROBERT NORSTROM

The challenge of the missionary work of the Baptist General Conference will be presented at Calvary Baptist Church tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock, when the Rev. Miss Nixon will be the speaker. The final speaker on this program series will be the Rev. Robert Norstrom, of the department of missionary promotion and education for the Baptist General Conference. Mr. Norstrom will speak in Sunday morning, April 21.

This particular concern is the work in Alaska, Mexico, Virgin Islands and among the American Indians. In addition to this, is the Extension work involved in starting new churches here in the States.

The Rev. Nixon who speaks tomorrow evening represents the total United Mission For Christ with emphasis upon Bethel College and Seminary of St. Paul, Minnesota.

Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, the outstanding missionary film, YOSHIO will be shown. It depicts the life of a Japanese boy who becomes Christian.

Missionary Fred Thomas of the Philippine Islands will have charge of the Friday evening service which begins at 7 o'clock also; he has served two tours in the islands. The highlight of his second tour was the organization of the Toledo Baptist Church of Cebu and a new building was also erected. The closing service will feature Missionary Wilfred Head.

of Ethiopia who will be heard Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The Rev. Head's ministry in the field of literature will be presented. All interested persons are invited to attend.

KITCHEN AID

Wise cooks know that everything in the kitchen must be placed conveniently — so efficiency may flourish. Paper towels should be close to sink and refrigerator, ready for any chore that comes along. An interesting, unusual holder adds a glamour note.

1 ♠ Pass 2 NT
Dble. 3 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
6 ♠ Pass 6 ♠ Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♣.
Employment of the unusual no trump overall backfired on East when it served as a playing guide to South, the declarer at six spades, in a hand taken from the Winter Nationals recently concluded in New Orleans.

At most of the tables where the deal was played, North and South were content to settle for a game in spades. When the trump finesse failed, declarer was held to 11 tricks. At one table, the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram and North and South reached an aggressive slam contract.

The North hand does not begin to qualify for a two over one response which announces at least 10 points. It barely makes the grade for a raise to two spades since it is worth only about seven points in support of that suit.

East's bid of two no trump is the conventional method of asking partner to bid his better minor suit. It could hardly be construed as a natural call in the face of forward going bids by both opponents. Altho East does have attractive distribution, his suits are not solid enough to support a contract at the three level particularly when the opposition is marked with most of the outstanding high card strength. It is somewhat akin to fighting tanks with a "peashooter."

South doubled two no trump, and when West bid three clubs, South made a cue bid in that suit to show his strength and suggest an interest in big things. North should probably have rebid the hearts in order to show his partner down. When he showed the spade support instead, South could hardly resist bidding a slam in spades.

West led the ten of clubs. East put up the queen and declarer played the ace. In light of the bidding, South knew that East was extremely short in the major suits. If he had a singleton spade, which seemed probable, then an unusual sequence of plays was indicated.

The ace of spades was cashed at trick two, and declarer followed this by playing three rounds of hearts—discarding his losing club on the third round. East was out of hearts also, but he had no more trumps.

The jack of spades was led from dummy and declarer underplayed from his hand. West won the trick and shifted to a diamond, but South had the ace of that suit. He reentered the North hand with the ten of trumps and discarded his diamonds on the high hearts. His only loser on the deal was the king of spades.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1968.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Under day's generous Mars aspect, you should feel ambitious, seek new ways to improve, eliminate waste motion. Long-range projects especially favored.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — You may not find it simple to deal with various types of people and situations without running into opposition and misunderstandings. The main thing is to recognize this and remain unruffled.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Don't cross others heedlessly or when they are disturbed, except if a matter is important. Be especially tactful when dealing with the opposite sex, superiors. Avoid extremes, anxiety.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Excellent lunar influences suggest that you take advantage of ALL opportunities. Do not let the good "little" things pass unnoticed while you search for big ones.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Calculations must be careful, else you could get well off the track. Account for your share of work seriously, but don't take YOURSELF too seriously. Don't make rash promises.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — No outstandingly impressive opportunities indicated, yet there are hidden gems of value in this day which you may overlook if you are too hasty, too anxious, or if you only skim the surface of things.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Avoid a tendency toward lethargy now. You could make some unusual strides if you put your talents to work. Emphasize your top-flight intuition and adaptability.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23) — You may find it desirable to make some changes in your program now, but be sure the alterations you make ARE an improvement. Mars promises advancement if you are resourceful and accurate.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — To work, and work hard, with what you have will be the telling factor now. Few will step forward to help unsolicited, but few will fail you either — if your smile is turned on.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Day should be generally good but, without personal initiative, you will bog down. Emphasize honesty, reliability.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Put all the enthusiasm you can muster into activities. There are fine chances for advancement now. You should do exceptionally well in projects that call for clever organization.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — You may find that activities in which you expected to participate are not now scheduled, nor are they as vital as they seemed earlier. Others will come into view, however. Be prepared to accept change.

YOU BORN TODAY are of Aries, Head Sign of the Zodiac, represented by the Ram, a member of the Fire Triplet. You can become a persuasive speaker, an enthusiast for new causes and entertainment; could succeed in lecture and promotional fields. Your aspirations are admirable normally, but avoid impulsively and restlessness. Birthdate of: Wilbur Wright, airplane inventor, Charles Chaplin, cinema star.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE PREGNANT DIABETIC
A recent bride wants to know whether she can expect any problems due to her diabetes. "I want the facts. We have decided to accept the risks involved and take necessary precautions in order to live a full life." Special problems exist when a diabetic is pregnant, but these should cause no alarm provided the disease is kept under control while expecting and immediately after childbirth.

Control may be difficult during the first few months, especially when the woman develops morning sickness with nausea and vomiting. Daily adjustments in insulin dosage may be necessary. The physician can help when these changes are needed.

More insulin may be needed during midpregnancy explaining why the urine should be examined daily. The need increases gradually, and unless recognized, may lead to serious complications.

Toxemia of pregnancy occurs more often in diabetic than nondiabetic women; the risk also is greater when kidney disease, circulatory disorders, and other health problems coexist. Our reader should be aware of this, but not concerned, so long as she gets good medical care.

The risk also extends to the baby. Many infants were formerly lost because the child was very large and delivery was prolonged or difficult. Obstetricians now avoid these pitfalls by inducing labor three weeks before the expected date of birth. In some instances, a caesarean section is done. Decisions along this line depend upon results of regular check-ups and laboratory tests. Knowing the physical size of the child, his vitality and position in the uterus is important.

Following delivery, insulin requirements decrease for two to three days. Too much insulin at this time may cause a reaction. After a bit, pre-pregnancy dosage is resumed.

TOMORROW: Underweight.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SOAP AND SKIN
Miss P. writes: Are soap and water hard on the face?
REPLY: Soap may have a drying effect on skin that already is dry but it will not harm normal skin.

Learn the seven warning signals of cancer.

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in a wart or mole.

If a signal lasts longer than two weeks, see your doctor without delay.

It makes sense to know the seven warning signals of cancer.

The Four L's Club met at the home of Mrs. David Marsh, Wednesday evening. A Chinese auction was held, proceeds to be added to their treasury. Secret sister gifts were received by Mrs. Ray Lauffer, Mrs. Harland Hill and Mrs. Clara Holmes.

It was voted to sponsor a Little League Fall team and a Bake Sale will be held May 11 to help defray the cost. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Francis Spieren May 8 with each member bringing a guest, in honor of Mothers' Day.

They didn't build houses like they used to, not the way William Gillette built his country place anyway. Gillette the American architect had for his masterpiece, a house in the early years of this century, specified granite walls four to five feet thick at the base and hand-hewn oak interior trim. Gillette's estate is near Lynde, Conn. It once boasted a full-size railroad to provide transportation throughout the property.

Tuesday's TV Highlights

MORNING MOVIE on Ch. 11 at 10 a. m. offers "It's A Great Life" starring Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake. When Dagwood gets invited to a fox hunt, the only thing that is safe is the fox.

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SPECIAL on Chs. 4, 10 and 35 at 7:30 p. m. presents "The Lonely Draymen - Portugal's Men of the Sea". It is the story of the Portuguese fishermen, who, clinging to the ways of their forefathers spend six months at sea in an annual adventure to help feed their countrymen. The program traces the path of these hardy cod fishermen from Lisbon across the Atlantic to the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, north to the Davis Strait off Greenland and back home.

TUESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES on Chs. 2, 6, and 12 at 9 p. m. offers "The Lion", starring William Holden and Trevor Howard. An American lawyer is summoned to East Africa by his former wife who feels that their 11 year old daughter is being badly influenced by her stepfather.

CHARLES COLLINGWOOD REPORTS from Hanoi on Ch. 4 at 10 p. m. This New Special Report comes from the first network correspondent back from the enemy capital. It will include filmed interviews with North Vietnamese leaders, bomb damage in Hanoi and Hanoi.

Library Theater, "The Happiest Millionaire", Fred MacMurray, Tom Steele, 6:50-9:20. Wintergarden Theater, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner", Spencer Tracy, Sidney Poitier, 7:15-9:30.

'A BUM DEAL' Nation's Protests Masters Golf Finish

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Telegrams from across the nation poured in to Augusta National Monday, criticizing the controversial finish of the Masters Golf Tournament.

"We've gotten quite a stack of them," said Clifford Roberts, chairman of the Masters. "And not one said we did the proper thing."

"The ones we got all say 'You gave that fellow a bum deal.'"

"That fellow" is Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo, globe-trotting golfer who tied for the Masters title Sunday but was dropped to second because he signed a card which listed his score incorrectly.

The ruling left Bob Goalby the champion and wearer of the green coat, and it also left the Masters embroiled in golf's biggest controversy.

Roberts said the critics of the ruling "don't understand the difference between golf and spectator sports, such as football and baseball," and he also pointed out that the Masters was just complying with golf rules.

"You must remember," he said in an interview, "that baseball and football players have no responsibility about keeping score."

"In golf, this responsibility is pinned on the player, who must turn in an accurate score."

Roberts said hiring scorekeepers to accompany the golfers would not work because only the players know how many shots they have taken in the rough, or if they have incurred a penalty stroke.

"The playing partner is a much more qualified scorer than any young lady you could send around to keep score," Roberts said.

De Vicenzo's partner was Tommy Aaron, who gave the Argentine a four on the 17th hole although De Vicenzo made a birdie three there.

When the score was totaled, it showed De Vicenzo with a 66 instead of the 65 he shot. De Vicenzo, upset over bogeying the 18th hole, signed the card and was taken away to prepare for the final ceremonies. Then Aaron discovered the error and De Vicenzo had to accept the score he signed for.

That gave him a total of 278, one stroke more than Goalby's 72-hole total, and plans for a Monday playoff were eliminated. Goalby was ruled the champion.

BOATING SAFETY There were over 100 persons in attendance Monday night at the outdoor boating safety class conducted at the Warren Area High School cafeteria under the sponsorship of Warren's U. S. Power Squadron. Discussing proper lighting for pleasure boats are Robert Wittford (l) Warren and Will Jones (r), Kane. The course is authorized by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission. (Photo by Mahan)

Sam Jones' 37 Points Keeps Celtics Alive

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sam Jones' 37 points and a fine defensive job by Wayne Embry kept the Boston Celtics alive in the National Basketball Association playoffs Monday night with a 122-104 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

The Celtics trail 3-2 in the best-of-7 Eastern Division finals.

Embry came on in the second half to do a great defensive job in keeping Wilt Chamberlain away from the basket. Chamberlain scored 28 points and Hal Greer added 20 for the 76ers.

Form New Pro Boxing League

CHICAGO (AP) — The formation of a professional boxing league with franchises in eight cities was announced Monday by Jack Drees, sports commentator.

The cities and team owners include:

Chicago, Joseph Kellman and Drees; Los Angeles, Loyd C. Sigmom and Clair L. Stout; San Francisco, William D. Shaw; Boston, Curt Gowdy and James Fuller.

Louisville, William H. King; Pittsburgh, Robert Prince and Art Rooney; Baltimore, L. Weston Gregory; and Washington, D.C., Harry G. Sells and W. Ernest Minor III.

The organization will be known as the International Boxing League, Inc. The IBL hopes to operate this fall and has a target of a 16-team membership by the fall of 1969.

"Boxers will be placed under an annual contract ranging from $8,000 to $15,000," said Drees. "There will be no managers. The contract will be owned by the team for which the boxer competes. Group insurance, pension plans and other benefits are included. The program figures to revitalize boxing in all its areas."

Each team probably will carry a squad of 15 boxers, three for each weight division. Teams will compete for divisional championships with champions meeting for the league title. All bouts will be six rounds.

On Disabled List

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees put Joe Pepitone on the disabled list for 21 days Monday after the center fielder suffered a hairline fracture of the left elbow.

Pepitone injured the arm Sunday while making a throw.

The Yankees said they would not immediately replace him on the roster.

Wins By Neck

PARIS (AP) — Taj Dewan, owned by Mrs. Georges Courtouts of France and ridden by Yves Saint-Martin, came on strong in the stretch to win by a short neck over Rot Dagobert in the $113,250 Grand Prix at Longchamp Monday.

The victory was worth $60,000 for first plus a breeder's prize of $6,000.

Olympic Head Visits South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, made a surprise visit to South Africa Monday for consultations with members of the South African Olympic Committee.

His visit comes less than a week before the emergency session of the IOC executive board in Lausanne, Switzerland, to discuss South Africa's readmittance to the Olympic Games.

Brundage told newsmen he would have consultations with the South African officials but declined to give further details.

But the object of the visit is thought certain to be connected with pressure from African nations, the Soviet Union and certain other countries for South Africa to be once again barred from the Olympics, in Mexico City Oct. 12-27.

South Africa, barred from the Olympics in 1963 because of her racial segregation policy, was readmitted by the IOC in February following a relaxation of apartheid which would allow a racially integrated team to compete abroad. Strict segregation was to be maintained inside South Africa.

Stanley Cup Finals May Begin Thursday

MONTREAL (AP) — The National Hockey League announced Monday the East Division Stanley Cup final series will begin Thursday or Saturday night in Montreal.

Montreal, which eliminated Boston in four straight games, will meet the winner of the New York-Chicago best-of-7 semi-final series. Chicago leads 3-2 with the sixth game scheduled tonight in Chicago and the seventh game, if necessary, in New York Thursday.

In the Western Division semi-finals today Philadelphia is at St. Louis and Los Angeles at Minnesota. Philadelphia and Los Angeles each leads its series 3-2.

ABA Playoff Set

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pipers announced Monday that the opening game against New Orleans for the American Basketball Association championship will be held here Thursday.

The second game in the best-of-7 series was set for Saturday.

The teams hope to go to New Orleans for the next two games Wednesday, April 24, and Thursday, April 25.

Dragons in First Home Track Meet Today Against Franklin

BY DAN PRATZ

The Warren Dragon track and field team will be holding their first home meet of the season this afternoon at 3:45 when they roll out the carpet for Franklin on the WARHS hilltop oval. This will be the first meet for the Blue and White with a Section II opponent. The Franklin Knights have proved tough in the last two years, never losing a dual meet.

Warren already holds two victories under their belt as they downed Bradford in their opener 99-51 and topped cross country rival Youngville 110-40.

The Dragons have proved powerful in several areas so far this season. Dave Cobb has been running a fast 4:40 mile for the Blue and White and Harry Spackman pounds out the sprints doing the 440 against Youngville with a winning time of 52.7.

In the field events Warren boasts Dan Krumm triple jumping over 40 feet and sophomore Ed O'Neil hurling the javelin 169 feet 3 inches.

Chris Lytle and John LaRue are the Dragon hurdlers. Lytle captured the 120 highs in a time of 18.3 in the meet with the Eagles. Relays also appear to be speedy for the Dragons with the 880 squad pounding out a time of 1:38.4 and the mile relay winning with a time of 3:43.

Two-miler Larry Maxwell rounds out the squad by competing in the two-mile run, with a time of 10:30.8, giving Warren plenty of depth and speed.

Missing from the Dragon squad today will be Rick Nasman, Nasman, high jumper and pole vaulter on the Blue and White lineup, was injured in the pole vault at the Youngville meet when he came down between two pieces of foam rubber badly twisting his ankle.

The Franklin Knights also hold a pair of victories, the first one came in the opener over Greenville 102½-47½ and the second one in a wet, sloppy contest with Grove City 83½-66½.

Cindermen on the Knights' squad also appear good material with Rolland (Ray) Lawler leading the pack. Lawrence held the Franklin triple jump mark at 40 feet 11 inches and last week he broke it with a leap of 41 feet 3 inches against Greenville.

Bill Gabrys is also a bright spot in the Knights' lineup. Gabrys runs the high hurdles in 16.4 and has hurled the shot over 47 feet in practice sessions with his best meet throw this year being 42 feet 9½ inches.

All around the squads look evenly matched and with the Dragons out to topple Franklin's two-year streak of dual meet wins, the results should prove interesting.

Elkers Meet 2nd County Track-Field Team Today

The Youngville Eagles will be out for their second win of the season when they host the Ridgway Elkers at 4:00 this afternoon. Youngville carries a 1-1 slate, winning their first meet of the season against Titusville 79-71, and dropping their second contest to Warren 110-40.

The Eagles already have proven that they have the material that it takes to win. Sprinter Gary Wood runs a fast 100 for the Eagles, somewhere in the range of 10.7 and also carries fast times in the 220 and 440.

Bobby Long has been the Eagles' miler, also competing in the pole vault and leaping well over 11 feet. Youngville remains weak in the field events with John Thompson hurling the javelin around 140 feet and Jeff Luvison throwing the shot just a little over 40 feet.

Ridgway has held one dual meet losing to Eisenhower last week 100-50. The Elkers were also in a triangular with Emporium and St. Marys, placing second behind Emporium by 10 points.

The Elkers have had a few bright spots this season. While still fielding a young squad, many records are being broken. Earl Park captured the Ridgway century mark with a time of 10:25 against Eisenhower.

Earl's brother, Carl, holds two new records. Carl threw the javelin 163 feet and the shot put 44 feet 9 inches retiring any existing records.

Jim Thompson went 10 feet 3 inches in the pole vault and Terry Stanley ran the two mile in 11:29 setting two new records for the Elkers.

Two more Ridgway marks fell in the triangular as Doug Jones clocked a 2:19.3 in the 880 yard run and the mile relay team set a mark at 9:39.3.

The Eagles will be out to better their 1-1 mark while the Elkers still remain hungry for that one victory.

750 Hot Stovers Sign Up For Season - Ask for Umpires

The Warren Boro Hot Stove League has signed 750 boys to its roster for this season. The Bantam division has the most enthusiasm with 245 boys signed up. A total of 240 Midgrets, 158 Cadets and 105 Inter-mediate will play.

A schedule of 16 games is being prepared for the Bantam League, while a total of 18 games will be played by Cadets, Midgrets and Intermediates. In an effort to keep interest high this season Nick Tomassoni announced that Carbon Field will be used by the Hot Stove League on every Friday night possible.

So far a total of 53 sponsors have pledged their support to the league this year and officials are grateful for these sponsors and their financial support. Several more sponsors are needed and any company, dealer, or retailer interested is requested to contact Hank English at 1416 Allegheny avenue or phone 723-6437. By the time the final team rosters are prepared it is estimated that the league will field around 56 teams.

The most pressing and important problem facing league officials is the lack of umpires. It was noted by officials that every season plenty of "fault finding" and criticism is made against the league, but what is sorely needed is more help and cooperation from parents, or any other interested adults who can lend us a hand in umpiring.

The next meeting for the Hot Stove League will be Thursday April 18 at the YMCA at 7:30 p.m. In addition to completing team rosters, equipment problems and distribution will be taken care of. A final review of the league operations will be voiced prior to making arrangements for practice sessions for the players. All interested people are urged to attend.

ABC-TV Announces College Grid Card

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Saturday night games and a "wild card game" are among the features of the college football program to be telecast by ABC-TV this fall, the network announced Monday.

Roone Arledge, president and executive producer of ABC Sports, said there will be a total of 35 games telecast, including 11 nationally and 24 regionally.

The two Saturday night games will be telecast nationally. The first will be the Nov. 16 Alabama-Miami, Fla., contest from Miami. The second will be the Southern California-UCLA classic the following Saturday night, Nov. 23, from Los Angeles.

Actually, the USC-UCLA game will be a night affair for only part of the country. It is scheduled to start at 6 p.m., EST.

Under the "wild card game" arrangement, ABC will be able to pick one extra game on any date during the season and televise it. A game or games already scheduled for that date still will be televised.

Arledge said there was a third new feature in the agreement with the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The conference games for the afternoon of Nov. 16 will be picked after the season starts.

DEATH OF BIG THREE No One Man Will Dominate Caravan of Tough Golfers

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Bob Goalby's victory in the Masters, tainted as it was by the regrettable bad luck that befell Roberto de Vicenzo, tolls the death of what the game's cliché artists have come to term the Big Three.

There no longer is a Big Three in big time tournament golf. There no longer is a Big Two or a Big One.

For a while at least, it appears that no one man, no two men or three, are going to dominate this caravan of tough golfing gypsies who play for close to $6 million a year.

Arnold Palmer shot one of the worst rounds of the tournament and didn't qualify for the last 36 holes. It was big Jack Nicklaus' course and his weather, but with all this strength, ability and desire—he's never been more eager—he was unable to bull through the pack as he had done so often before. Gary Player, now just a part-time competitor, made a valiant stab but it wasn't enough.

The old hands, such as Goalby, don't roll over and play dead any more at the mention of the names of Palmer and Nicklaus. There's a new breed of kids coming up—so strong, so hungry and so absolutely fearless that the prospect of their ultimate prowess is frightening.

Goalby is a big, masculinely handsome man of 37 with a rugged face, shoulders of a blacksmith and a fine golf game.

From Belleville, Ill., he played some freshman football at the University of Illinois. He then turned pro and was named golf's Rookie of the Year in 1957. Since then, he has had an up-and-down record, but he always has been a factor on the tour—one of those figures moving in the shadow of the headline-grabbers.

He's won seven tour tournaments, his last the San Diego Open in 1967, and earned around $400,000 in official money.

Fellow pros always said he would be one of the best if he could curb his temper and cure an atrocious hook.

Sam Snead and the late Tony Lema helped him put a damper on his temper. An old friend, Johnny Revolta, straightened out the hook.

Goalby's winnings score of 277 was the fourth best ever in the Masters. He'll have many others like it, perhaps starting with the Tournament of Champions this weekend in Las Vegas.

De Vicenzo, the popular Argentine who was deprived of a tie for the title because he signed for one stroke more than he made, goes to the $35,000 Azalea Open in Wilmington, N.C.

City Softball Meet Tonight

The City Softball League meets this evening at 8:00 at the Sons of Italy Club. All managers, officers, players and any other interested parties are urged to attend.

Sports of The Times Arthur Daley A Ridiculous Rule

NEW YORK — After the Masters tournament one year a generous Arnold Palmer decided to give his caddy a $1,000 tip. He asked his wife, Winnie, to write out the check and never gave it another thought. Neither did she apparently. She absent-mindedly wrote out a check for $10,000 and left it at the Augusta National where club officials discovered the obvious error. An embarrassed Mrs. Palmer replaced the inflated check with one for the correct amount.

But there was no recall Sunday at Augusta when a different kind of mistake in pennmanship cost the amiable Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina a tie with Bob Goalby for one of the most cherished prizes in golf. He signed his name on a scorecard that had incorrectly listed his birdie 3 on the 17th as a par 4. At the time the sub-totals had not been added. Otherwise he would have instantly sensed that something was wrong when he was given a 66 instead of the 65 he had actually earned on the last round.

Rules are rules, however, no matter how ridiculous they are. The links code ordains that any divot-digger who attests to a higher score than he made is stuck with the higher score. If he signs to a lower score, he is disqualified. No matter how honorable his intentions are, intent is not permitted to intrude. Neither is justice.

What made this arithmetical mishap seem so scandalous is that it was exposed on nationwide television to millions of witnesses. They watched the happy fella from Argentina roll in the birtie, thought they were seeing a play-off in the making and were horrified to learn later that Roberto's autograph on an erroneous scorecard had nullified everything. No golfer was Gertrude Stein but she might have phrased it: A rule is a rule is a rule.

But why is there such a rule? Golf is the only sport which obliges each contestant to be his own scorekeeper. It was proper enough in ancient days and still is proper enough in club matches of little consequence. However, it no longer belongs in major championships where milling thousands of galleries charge all over the course and where television magnifies the impact of the event and where huge purses add to the emotional pressure.

Furthermore, no other phase of athletic activity demands more intense concentration on the business at hand than golf. No player should be required to risk distraction by also serving as a bookkeeper. Not only does he know every shot he made but he can remember every one. Gene Sarazen, if asked, can still describe in precise detail every stroke he made in shooting a 56 on his final round to win the United States Open Championship in 1932.

Golfers also happen to be the most honest competitors of all. Bobby Jones once lost an open crown by calling an extra stroke on himself. One that no one else saw. He thought he saw the ball move as he addressed it. Maybe it did. Maybe it didn't. But he bet backward to call it.

Fred Corbair runs the World Cup Tournament — it originally was known as the Canada Cup — and has had golfers from 40 nations competing over a 15-year period without a disqualification or rhu-lar. Fred's committee checks every bag before play starts so that none can accidentally break the rule on a maximum of 13 clubs. Don't forget that Sammy Snead was involved in a rather infamous incident on a TV match when he refused to press for a win after discovering late in the show that he had inadvertently placed an extra club in his bag.

The Corbairan officials check scores, bring contestants to the official repository and make sure each signs his card. It's well to remember that Doug Sanders was disqualified once for forgetting to affix signature to card.

The United States Golf Association sends out gal scorers with each twosome or threesome in major tournaments. But these female volunteers have no official status and are used mainly to keep spectators, news media and scoreboards up to date. It would be simple enough to give them official status, cross-checking with the contestants at the end of each hole. A final cross-check at the end of the round would lend far more emphasis to the ritual than having players weariedly haul scorecards from their pockets for a much too cursory glance.

If the Jolls can't be trusted, the U.S.G.A. can use guys. There always are enough club members who would be delighted at such an opportunity. Joe Day and the other golfing fathers have one of the finest sports organizations in the world but they are the ones who will be regarded as fall guys in the De Vicenzo goof because of the unnecessary inflexibility in their rules.

Although this one should seem to have left them painted into a corner, there is the easy escape of having official scorers relieve the players of a burden they never should be asked to assume. The post-tournament ceremonies at Augusta became a grotesque mockery of the great piece of Americana that the Masters had become. Archaic rules and archaic presenters swept it into sport's dark ages. Something should be done about both.
